Tire President, it appears from the Washington dispatches, has written a lotter to Attorney General Devens conserning the mockery of justice known as the trial of the members of the Louis has be trial of the members of the Louis has be trial of the members of the Louis has be trial of the members of the Louis has been as the trial of the members of the Louis has been always it still that it is the plate gass. While cans nor the Southern Democrats cared were not one of "them d-d literary fellers" he might have called General Devens into his presence and quietly talked the matter over with him, as the Department of Justice is less than a journey from the White House.-If he felt an irresistible desire to write, there would have been more propriety in addressing his letter to Postmister General Key, who is supposed to he more intimately acquainted with the peculfarities of the Southern Democonts than the Cabinet member from Researchusetts. We were led to believe her Gen. Key was accepted an a sort of hostage for the good behavior of his Democratic brothren, and that his elecration to the Cabinet would soothe the meer and semilive Southerners into peaceful citizens of a united and harmonious nation Surely, if the confidence of Mr. Hayes has been rudely shocked by the conduct of his Southern friends, he eacht to remonstrate with one of their representative men. The public has not as yet been made acquainted with the full text of the letter in question, but it is said to contain extions of regretithat the cases against Wells; Anderson and the others are ing conducted in a spirit of paraci tion, and in direct violation of the pledue wohmterily made by leading Democratic citizens of Louisians when the Nicholis government was recognized. There is also some lamentation that the Anderson will tend to disturb the harmony which was expected to follow in the footsteps of Domocratic assemblency. New ORLEANS, La., Feb. 13 -- The morning, when the motion for a new trial in the Anderson case came up, the defense filed additional grounds that the scoused could prove by Littlefield that he never had any connection what ever with the forgery and the uttering of forgod returns, to which fact Little field had already testified before the Congressional Committee in Washington, that Littlefield, after a year's ab sence, had claudestinely returned and hidden himself until after the evidence had closed and the argument opened, thereby depriving the accused of his testimony. The accused can also prove by Colonel Zacharie (Democrat) that he was not present at the opening of the returns from Vernon parish, that the Democratic clerks often made errors in the returns for which they could also have been made to answer a criminal charge. The incorrectness of the Re-turning Board proceedings by Collins, the stenographer, were often referred to during the proceedings. The motion was continued till Friday. Washington dispatches, has written a letter to Attorney General Devens concorning the mockery of justice known an the trial of the members of the Louise lans Returning Board If Mr. Hayen were not one of "them dad literary fellers" he might have called General Devens into his presence and quietly talked the matter over with him, as the Department of Justice is less than a a journey from the White House .---If he felt an irresistible desire to write, there would have been more propriety in addressing his letter to Postmister General Key, who is supposed to la more intimately soquainted with the peculiarities of the Southern Democonts than the Cabinet member from Resented the We were led to believe the Gos. Key was accepted as a sort of flostage for the good behavior of his Democratic brethren, and that his elevariou to the Cabinet would soothe the cerder and sensitive Southerners into peaceful citizens of a united and harmonious nation Surely, if the confidence of Mr. Hayes has been rudely shocked by the conduct of his Southern friends, he eaght to remonstrate with one of their representative men. The public has not as yet been made acquainted with the full text of the letter in question, but it is said to contain exzions of regretithat the cases against Wells; Anderson and the others are being conducted in a spirit of personal tion, and in direct violation of the pleches wohnsterily made by leading Deschetatio citizens of Louisians when the Nicholis government was recognized. There is also some lamentation that the Anderson will tend to disturb the har mong which was expected to follow in the footsteps of Domecratic assessmency. CHINESE SLAUGHTER.

The autibut of people wite have been killed daring the Chinese re hellions and wars is awfully energious. During the past rebellion in the northern Province the aggregate is estimated among the millions. These Chinese atrocities are of the most hamble description. SILVER WEDDING.

Twenty-five years having passed since Mr. I. J. Halsted and Miss Harriet A. Benghton plighted their vows to each other and promised to travel the highway of life together, a goodly number of their friends from the city, besides several of their old Tuscola friends, met at their res-Mance on Condit street last evening to congestulate them. Notwithstanding the inglemency of the weather quite a large company was present. The ovening was pleasantly spent by all, and at the proper time a pientiful repeat was partaken of.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Wallace and Mrs. M. B. Jewell, of Tuscols, Mrs. D W. Samuels of St. Louis, Hev. W. G. Inman and lady, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Knieper, Mrs. L. L. Haworth, Mrs. Thos. Hays and

Bunn, Esq , then addressed the meeting for a short time, urging the importance of treating with great kindness and consideration those who had been regarded as outcasts and were trying to reform, the ladies especially were appealed to on this subject; and incidents were related which went to show the infigures of a kind word addressed to one strugging to free himself from the power of whinky.

At the conclusion of Mr Bunn's remarks the pledge was offered, and a good, 'num ber responded to the invitation to come forward and enroll themselves as temper

Another meeting was appointed for this evening, which will probably be conducted in the same manner as was that of last

ME STILL LIVES.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN -I see in your paper an ansouncement of my death from erysipelas and diptheria. I am happy to be able to correct the report I am not only alive but as great a lunatic on the greenback question as ever I did have a severe attack of crysipelas, and instead of diptheria an abscess in the throat, which but for the timely aid of Dr Casi to the depot Slate at Armstrong's drug Chenoweth, of your city, there would doubtless have been occasion for just A sent line of wall paper at Abel such an obituary as you published, save a Locke's; the latest styles, at bottom the complimentary part, for which I am certainly under many obligations

.ELVER WEDDING.

Twenty-five years having passed since Mr. I. J. Hainted and Miss Harriet A. Haughton plighted their vows to each other and promised to travel the highway of life together, a goodly number of their friends from the city, besides several of their old Tuscola friends, met at their res-Mance on Condit street last evening to constitution them. Notwithstanding the inches of the weather quite a large company was present. The evening was pleasantly spent by all, and at the proper time a pientiful repeat was partaken of. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wallace and Mrs. M. B. Jewell, of Tuscola, Mrs. D W. Samuels of St. Louis, Rev. W. G. Inman and lady, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Knieper, Mrs. L. L. Haworth, Mrs. Thos. Hays and others. Several valuable and useful articles of choice sliver ware were presented by their friends as tokens of their regards

Mr. H. who is well-known as one of the most competent and trustworthy of Uncic Sam's postal clerks was the recipient of primerous friendly remembrances from his friends in the service.
